Join us at the ECOSOC Special Meeting on International Cooperation in Tax Matters which will take place on Friday, 8 April 2022 from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. (New York time) in conjunction with the 24th Session of the United Nations Committee of Experts on International Cooperation in Tax Matters.

The Special Meeting provides a platform for multi-stakeholder discussions on international tax, facilitating the exchange of ideas and advancing intergovernmental consideration of tax matters.

This year's Meeting will analyze and debate critical tax topics in the context of the COVID-19 pandemic recovery and beyond:

- the future of corporate taxation in a digitalized and globalized world: including recent changes to the UN Model Taxation Convention and the G20-led initiative at the OECD-Inclusive Framework level on a two-pillar solution to address the tax challenges of the digitalized and globalized economy; and

- tackling tax aspects of illicit financial flows for sustainable development: among key topics, the session will discuss the challenges faced by developing countries concerning tax-related illicit financial flows in the extractives sector and suggest solutions.

The Meeting will also provide updates on the work of the UN Tax Committee.

The outcome of the Special Meeting will be a Presidential summary to be widely disseminated. The summary will also inform further UN outreach and capacity building activities on these and other critical topics to assist countries in their efforts to finance sustainable development.
